This chart shows the change in the number of non-farm jobs in North Carolina since 1985; it also shows how the industries that comprise those jobs have changed over time. See page two for a detailed table of figures.

Notes:

1. "Non-Farm Employment" is a measure of the number of workers in most non-agricultural industries in the State. The data exclude some groups of workers, including the military, private household employees, unincorporated self-employed people, and the non-profit sector.
2. Data are compiled quarterly by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, are seasonally adjusted, and were provided by Moody's Analytics. Data represent the fourth quarter (Dec 31) of each calendar year.
